FOREIGN DISPATCHES.

France Preparing for a Vigorous Campaign in China.

THE ANGLO-RUSSIAN DISPUTE.

Osman Digma Evacuates Hasheen and a Battle is Averted—The Riel Rebellion in the Northwest Rapidly Increasing

LONDON, March 31.—A dispatch from Paris to the Exchange Telegraph Company says De Freycinet, who has undertaken the task is found [illegible] he will succeed in forming a new ministry. The dispatch adds that the general belief in Paris is that General Billot will be the new minister of war, Rouvier the new minister of finance, and Constant the new minister of the interior.

De Freycinet is trying to form a ministry to represent the democratic and republican unions and the republican left. The following cabinet is proposed: De Freycinet, minister of foreign affairs; Rouvier, finance; Fallieres, interior; Spuller, public instruction; Flourquet, justice; General Billot, war; Admiral Jauregberry, marine.

A CRIPPLED NAVY.

MARSEILLES, March 31.—It is reported that vessels of the Tonquin fleet are in a terrible condition. Their boilers are almost useless. It will be impossible to use a majority of the transports now at Toulon for China service, because their draught is too much to permit them to enter the Suez canal. The arsenals and provision stores are almost empty and there is a dearth of officers.

FIRST INSTALLMENT VOTED.

The chamber of deputies unanimously voted the first installment amounting to $10,000,000 of the unquired credit of $40,000,000 asked by Ferry yesterday before the resignation of his cabinet. The deputies voted to reserve action on the remainder, $30,000,000, until the formation of the new ministry.

The senate to-day adopted the Tonquin credit for $10,000,000 without debate.

THE FRENCH FORCES.

A dispatch from Hanoi to the Temps, under date of yesterday, says: In consequence of troubles in the commissarial General Negrier's brigade was obliged to evacuate Langson and retire to Thanmoi and Dong Dang. The present positions are satisfactory. Sufficient provisions are being issued and the morale of the troops is excellent. Reinforcements however are urgently needed to stop the Chinese invasion and intrigues at Hue.

AN APPEAL FROM DE LISLE.

The government has received a dispatch from De Lisle, commander of the French forces in Tonquin. He entreats the war office to send him reinforcements immediately.

Eight thousand men have been ordered immediately to reinforce the French army in Tonquin.

WAR PREPARATIONS.

The war department continues preparations to hasten the dispatch of troops to Tonquin. Ten thousand men and four batteries of artillery leave Marseilles on Saturday. All available transports at Bordeaux, Havre and Marseilles have been chartered by the government. The first departures are timed to reach Hanoi May 1st, when the rainy season which commences about April 20 will be at its height. It is hoped the rains will assist General DeLisle in his defense and permit French gunboats to penetrate canals of the delta. French troops in Formosa will evacuate the island and go to Hanoi.

Advices from Kelung say the Chinese have completed destruction of the coal mines at that place, having exploded the galleries with dynamite and flooded the mines.

A RUMORED RISING.

It is rumored that the Annamites have risen against French authority. The rising is attributed to French reverses in Tonquin and to intrigues by Chinese mandarins.

MUCH ALARM FELT.

Much alarm is felt over the fact no news has been received for upward of thirty-six hours from the French army in Tonquin.

PARISIAN NOTES.

De Freycinet visited President Grevy this evening and informed him that he was unable to give a definite reply regarding the formation of the ministry.

Rentes are now quoted at 77.

A third edition of Le Soir, issued late to-night, says Freycinet has asked President Grevy to entrust the task of forming the new cabinet to some one else.

MAY RESULT IN PEACE.

BERLIN, March 31.—The Chinese embassy at this post think the change of ministry at Paris will induce the Chinese government to renew serious negotiations for peace between France and China.

IN A DANGEROUS POSITION.

HONG KONG, March 31.—The position of the French at Chu is extremely precarious. General Negrier's wound is assumed to be of a dangerous character. The recapture of Langson is difficult if not impossible until next year.

THE ANGLO-RUSSIAN TROUBLE.

IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

LONDON, March 31.—Sir Stafford Northcote in the house of commons this afternoon asked the government if anything further had been received from Russia concerning Afghan negotiations. The marquis of Hartington replied by refusing to give any information, and explaining the reason therefor. He assured the house he was not using any mere conventional phrase, and was not inspired by any wish to evade a discussion when he stated that the government deprecated, in the strongest terms, all attempts to induce ministers to enter into any detailed statement at the present time.

Hartington when refusing in the commons today to give any information regarding the relations with Russia said the government deemed this attitude necessary because both matters of fact and policy which formed the subject of discussion between England and Russia were objects concerning which strong and most sensitive feelings existed in England, Russia and India. In regard to continued military preparations the marquis stated that these were not being made as a menace to Russia, nor to influence pending negotiations.

Chaplin, conservative, asked if the government took the position that articles could be declared contraband of war by a nation engaged in warlike operations against another power in the absence of a declaration of war. Fitzmaurice, under foreign secretary, speaking for the government replied "Yes."

THE ADVANCE CONFIRMED.

A dispatch received this afternoon from Teheran confirms the report that the Russians [illegible] advanced their outposts to within eighteen miles of Penjdeh March 29th.

RUSSIA'S REPLY.

A Russian courier will arrive to-morrow bearing Russia's reply to Granville's latest demands with reference to the Afghan frontier.

ADVISED TO WAIT.

It is reported that the military council at St. Petersburg advised the Russian government against war until the railway had been completed to Sarakhs.

WAR NOTES FROM LONDON.

LONDON, March 31.—The Russian ambassador has imparted to Earl Granville the substance of the telegram from Deglers regarding the Afghan frontier. The government withholds information on this subject from parliament until the preliminaries have been settled for the meeting of the joint boundary commission. It is reported that Dufferin, viceroy of India, is negotiating with the ameer of Afghanistan for a formal treaty, recognizing a British protectorate over Afghanistan until peace is assured.

Existing orders for fitting out the naval reserve, purchase of transports and dispatch of reinforcements to India are being carried out.

WARLIKE ORDERS.

MALTA, March 31.—Orders have been received at once to prepare for commission the British war vessels Thunderer, [illegible] and [illegible].

THE AMEER MEETS DUFFERIN.

RAWAL PINDI, March 31.—Abdurrahman, ameer of Afghanistan, has arrived here. He was received at the railway station by Sir C. [illegible]. At Sirhind lieutenant governor of Punjab, with the most imposing military demonstration, and escorted to the governor's residence, the entire route being lined with massed troops. The weather was rainy and [illegible] at [illegible] the pageant. At the governor's residence the ameer was welcomed by Earl Dufferin. The ameer is evidently much impressed by the grandeur of the reception accorded him. The ameer is suffering from gout and a number of the proposed festivities in honor of his visit will be abandoned.

PREPARATIONS IN NEW ZEALAND.

LONDON, March 31.—Advices from New Zealand state that the government is actively placing the colony in a proper state of defense. Heavy guns have been mounted and torpedoes laid at Mos[illegible] and a fleet of torpedo boats is being organized.

THE SOUDAN.

ANOTHER ITALIAN EXPEDITION.

ROME, March 31.—The fourth Italian expedition to the Red sea is getting ready for departure as rapidly as possible. It will be prepared for an emergency. The announcement is interpreted to mean that the course of the expedition may be elsewhere than to the Red sea should occasion demand.

OSMAN DIGMA ABANDONS TAMAI.

SUAKIM, March 31.—It is reported that Osman Digma has evacuated Tamai as well as Hasheen. A body of British cavalry has been dispatched to ascertain if the report is true.

LONDON, March 31.—In the house of commons this afternoon Marquis Hartington announced that Osman Digma has abandoned Tamai.

COMPLETELY DEMORALIZED.

Latest accounts all indicate that Osman Digma is completely demoralized, and has retired to Erkowit. A flag of truce was hoisted over Hasheen to cover his retreat. Many tribes are [illegible] him. Work on the Berber railway is resumed.

WILL VISIT CAIRO.

CAIRO, March 31.—The nuncio of Pope Leo [illegible] [illegible] the khedive will soon [illegible] [illegible] the present situation in the Soudan [illegible] English and Egyptian officials.

GENERAL GRAHAM WILL ADVANCE.

General Graham will begin his advance [illegible] to-morrow. He expects to reach the [illegible] hours' march from General McNeill's [illegible]. Notwithstanding rumors that Osman [illegible] deserted he war office anticipates severe fighting.

NOT SURE FOR TAMAI.

The report that Osman Digma is [illegible] is not true. Scouts confirm the report that Osman has evacuated Hasheen. The advance on Tamai is therefore postponed.

ZEBEHR PASHA'S REVENGE.

VIENNA, March 31.—A dispatch from Constantinople says it is asserted that Zebehr Pasha [illegible] to Khartoum [illegible] Nubian [illegible] General Gordon [illegible] his revenge for the hanging of his son.

THE RIEL REBELLION.

Battleford in the Hands of the Half Breed.—The Uprising Increasing.

WINNIPEG, March 31.—Advices from Battleford show that the situation is growing worse. McKay, [illegible] to the Hudson Bay Co., writes: "Half breeds and Indians are plundering our stores. With the Indian agent I ventured out at the barracks to remonstrate with them, and was fired upon by both Indians and half breeds, who tried to cut us off on our way back, but we succeeded in getting [illegible] under the [illegible]."

A subsequent dispatch says that Indians have killed four instructors.

A later dispatch says all the half breeds have joined the malcontents and are filling all the stores, buildings outside of the barracks. People in the barracks have arms, ammunition and supplies enough to hold out until relief. Half breeds are also expected from Duck Lake. The Stoney Indians have joined the rest and killed several men. Buildings on the south side of the river, including those belonging to the Hudson Bay Company and the government have been burned. Indians seized all cattle, horses, etc. The settlers near the Stoney reserve which is the [illegible] Battleford, believed to be quiet up to this morning, when they went upon the war path. Their rising makes the situation very critical. Colonel Herchmer has left Regina for Battleford with seventy mounted police and one cannon. It is supposed he can reach there in six days if not interrupted.

Fears are entertained that the half breeds from Duck Lake will go to Whitney, cut off all communication and intercept the advance of the [illegible]. Indians on the Fort Pitt reserve between Fort Pitt and Edmonton are likely to join those at Battleford. The wires are [illegible] between Battleford and Edmonton. It is not known whether they were cut by half breeds or not.

RIEL'S FOLLOWING INCREASING.

Baptiste Borge has just returned from Carlton to Qu'Appelle. He was made a prisoner by Riel and kept by him some time. He says Riel has fully 1000 men under his command, many of whom are Indians, and are well armed. When Irvine and Crozier retreated on Prince Albert he says Riel followed and he is quite certain another engagement has or will take place.

One Fisher, another of Riel's captives, lost the contents of his store at Batoche crossing. He says that he has been joined by Indians who are [illegible] [illegible] him.

A half breed named Lovell from Duck Lake arrived at Qu'Appelle this morning, having broken through the rebel lines and made a road across the prairie. They report that the rebels refuse to let mail go out and threaten to shoot the carriers. They say they will not molest settlers if they remain quiet in their houses. They are pillaging stores and have captured George and John Kerr, the latter a storekeeper; Thompson, the operator, and Michael [illegible], postmaster at Duck Lake. Big Bear and Beardy have 1600 Indians around. Lovell thinks Riel is encouraging the rebels with promises of help from Montana and Pembina. General Ferry telegraphs there is no movement to cross the border.

ANOTHER BATTLEFORD DISPATCH.

WINNIPEG, March 31.—A Free Press dispatch from Battleford says: Indian instructors James Payne and George Applegarth of [illegible] Hills and two settlers have been killed. The [illegible] killed by the Stonies. The settlers were coming in. They were robbed of their horses, wagons and [illegible]. Others are coming in from [illegible] settlements in a destitute condition, and are collecting in the barracks where all are waiting. They have plenty of provisions and can stand a siege for some time. Half breeds are reported going towards [illegible] crossing to cut the telegraph wires. They will probably be cut and communication from Battleford broken to-morrow. Indians in western Man[illegible] are showing signs of disquiet and will probably join the rebels.

SKILLED TO WINNIPEG.

FARGO, D. T., March 31.—All repeating rifles and ammunition here have been sent to Winnipeg on the order from the authorities there this evening.

SHARPSHOOTERS LEAVE FOR THE FRONT.

OTTAWA, March 31.—Excitement over the Northwest disturbances continues. Shortly afternoon they left by the Canadian Pacific railway. They were escorted to the station by a large number of citizens.

NOTES FROM VARIOUS POINTS.

IN THE COMMONS.

OTTAWA, March 31.—In the house of commons to-day Sir John Macdonald stated that news from the Northwest is favorable. Crowfoot, chief of the Blackfeet, has given assurances that his tribe will be loyal under all circumstances. It was also hoped that an attack on Battleford will be averted. Before the orders of the day were called the minister of militia in answer to Blake confirmed a statement of the Times that ammunition for the use of Canadian troops in the Northwest had been forwarded by American railway companies to Emerson and said the thanks of the government had been forwarded to the managers of the railway companies for their promptness. Troops are being conveyed over the Canadian Pacific railway at the rate of two special trains daily.

Saving the Lawyers.

The first thing we do let's kill all the lawyers. This is rather a blood thirsty proposition which we modify by offering to cure this worthy class of people. Most of them suffer (in common with nearly all others of sedentary habits) from the injurious effects of dyspepsia, indigestion, piles, loss of appetite, and other ailments caused by a constipated habit of the body. Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" eradicate all these disorders in promptly removing the cause thereof, and induce a rare degree of comfort and health.

A consultation of the general's physicians [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible].

[illegible] Dr. Douglas has issued the following: [illegible] General Grant has improved in all [illegible] aspects since yesterday. His sleep is quiet and not disturbed by irritation of the throat. Local applications reduce the amount of the secretions. If they do not give the suffering feeling, [illegible] [illegible] on Sunday. He thinks which will [illegible] without inconvenience.

DR. DOUGLAS LEAVES.

Shortly after 4 o'clock Dr. Douglas and [illegible] [illegible] down the steps from General Grant's residence together. Dr. Shrady [illegible] parted about an hour earlier. Dr. Douglas entered [illegible] and was driven off. Dr. Newman strolled down toward Madison avenue and on [illegible] was met by a reporter. General Grant's condition is [illegible] hopeful," said the old [illegible] former pastor. "Why he felt so [illegible] that Dr. Douglas has gone off to visit other patients. The general [illegible] all the windows opened and when I left he was walking cheerfully around his [illegible]."

A number of idlers and loungers, among whom were a few women, gathered opposite the General's home and gazed long and earnestly at the house and eagerly scanned all persons who entered or left it. Two detectives from the Central office were detailed to look after objectionable characters.

At [illegible] Dr. Douglas returned to General Grant's house. Shortly after his disappearance a carriage containing General Daniel E. Sickles and Judge Thomas Brady drove up. They entered the house and remained about ten minutes. When they emerged General Sickles said: "I noticed no very great change in the general and his voice was good. He was walking about the room."

"General Grant is better," said Judge Brady, "but his condition is critical still. He has had two or three of these attacks and it may not be strong enough to resist the next one."

General Collis sent some beautiful flowers.

A VERY QUIET DAY.

Late this evening the following bulletin was issued: "General Grant has had a very quiet day. Doctors Douglas, Barker and Shrady met at 8 P. M. and found the general in a better condition than the day before. He does not speak of pain, only soreness in the throat. The irritation which annoyed him Sunday is just alleviated. The pulse is the same as yesterday and his general condition is encouraging for the present. He has just prepared for rest. All symptoms promise a fair night."

Dr. Douglas remains at the house during the night. Colonel Fred Grant retired early in the evening. He had not slept in three nights and was entirely worn out.

The difficulty of Sunday night was the result of exudation from the membranes of the throat and loss thereby of the very apprehension and from cold, [illegible] the muscles of the throat more rigid and less easy of management. These exudations which accompany cancerous diseases at certain stages were less copious to-day and the consequence was a quieter day. The cancerous lump at the end of the general's tongue is not yet active and the trouble of a few days past was the result not so much of the development of the disease as a consequence of the lowered vitality of the patient. Should General Grant's demise soon occur it will be because of his failing strength and want of vitality to withstand disease itself, rather than to the disease itself.

MIDNIGHT.

Midnight.—Dr. Douglas issues the following bulletin: "General Grant has been sleeping all the time since [illegible] o'clock. He has taken nourishment well and appears to be easy. His pulse is the same and breathing is free from distress."

CLEVELAND REAPPOINTS PEARSON

Further Particulars of the Aspinwall Outrage—Proceedings in the Senate—Caucus of Republican Senators

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Envoy extraordinary and ministers plenipotentiary of the United States: Richard B. Hubbard, Texas, to Japan; Wm. R. Roberts, New York, to Chili; Charles W. B. Buck, Kentucky, to Peru. Charles T. Russell, Connecticut, consul at Liverpool, England; Henry G. Pearson, postmaster at New York; Norman J. Colman, Missouri, commissioner of agriculture; William Lang, Texas, United States consul at Hamburg, Germany.

THE LUCKY FEW.

Significance of the Reappointment of Pearson at New York.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—A gentleman very near to the president, undoubtedly speaking from full knowledge, reports that the reappointment of Postmaster Pearson of New York was made after the most patient examination of all the facts connected with the charges against him, and his answer to the same which was yesterday submitted and read by the president. The appointment therefore may be considered a complete vindication of Pearson.

The appointment of Pearson will constitute a notable exception to the course which the president may be expected to pursue. The New York postoffice is the largest and most important in the country and of interest to all people and especially to vast business enterprises centered in the metropolis. It is to-day considered a complete instance of the successful application of civil service reform principles to an immense governmental establishment. This condition, added the gentleman above referred to, "has been brought about very largely by intelligent effort by Mr. Pearson and he is thus identified in the closest manner with this example of the success of reform. To remove him would insure faith and confidence in the movement, which would receive a shock from his removal. His retention was earnestly requested by a large number of business men of the city, some republicans and some democrats, and very generally by independent republicans who did such good service in support of the democratic candidates in the last campaign."

It is further authoritatively learned that this act of the president must not be regarded as indicating that in other cases those opposed to the party of the president will either be appointed or retained for the expiration of their terms of office. In answer to a suggestion that the reappointment of Pearson might create great dissatisfaction in the ranks of his party, the president is represented as saying "the democratic party is neither hypocritical, unpatriotic nor ungrateful."

OTHER NOMINATIONS.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—William R. Roberts of New York, nominated for the Chilean mission, [illegible] years of age and has resided in New York [illegible] past forty years. Roberts is also known as a supporter of efforts to benefit his native land (Ireland), and is said to have considerable influence among Irish citizens. It was on a resolution offered by Roberts while in congress that Fenians imprisoned in Canadian jails for the invasion of 1866 were liberated.

Richard B. Hubbard, nominated minister to Japan, is the well known ex-governor of Texas. He was a delegate to the national democratic convention at Cincinnati, where his notable eloquent speech placing General Hancock in nomination for the presidency brought him into national notice. He was the nomination chosen by the Texas convention last year and was elected to that convention as temporary chairman. He served several years as United States district attorney in Texas before the war, and is now engaged in the practice of law.

Charles T. Russell, the nominee for the Liverpool consulship, has a host at Haddam, Connecticut, but has spent the greater part of the time for a number of years in London as a merchant. He is described by prominent Connecticut republicans as a man of high character, intelligence and capacity.

William Lang of Texas, nominated to be consul at Hamburg, is vouched for by Texas senators as a man of ability with special qualifications for this appointment. He has resided in Europe during the last four years with headquarters at Hamburg, as immigration agent of the Southwestern railway system. He has been a member of the state senate and was for five years master of the Texas State Grange. Just before his departure for Europe he came within a few votes of receiving the democratic nomination for governor of Texas.

H. P. Kernochan, the nominee for naval officer at New Orleans, is a sugar planter of Plaquemines parish. He was formerly a merchant of New Orleans and a confederate officer during the war.

J. T. McGraw, nominated collector of internal revenue for West Virginia, is a prominent lawyer of Grafton, West Virginia, and was recommended for the place by almost the entire congressional delegation of that state. He was the first West Virginia graduate from Yale college and a school mate of Senator Kenna, and their friendship is still as close as in boyhood days. He is described as a brilliant young man.

Charles W. Buck, nominated minister to Peru, is a lawyer of Midway, Kentucky. He has never held a public office, and has not been prominent in political affairs. He has been for a number of years a close student of Peru and its history and is a man of excellent character and attainments.

THE ELECTRICAL AGE.

Wonders of Electricity to be Realized Before Many Years.

The possible applications of the principle of the electrical transmission of power are almost numberless. We shall, I believe, at no distant date, have great central stations, possibly situated at the bottom of coalpits, where numerous steam engines will drive many electric machines. We shall have wires laid along on every street, the electricity tapped into every house, and the quantity of electricity in each house registered as gas is at present. The storage battery will fill a place corresponding to the gasometer in the gas system, making the current steady, rendering the consumer independent of the irregular action or stoppages of the dynamos of the central station, and enabling the use of dynamos of the highest tension—i. e., those which produce the currents of the greatest intensity. The electricity will be passed through little electric machines to drive machinery to produce ventilation, to replace stoves and to work all sorts of apparatus, as well as to give everybody an electric light. Solar heat will be used to run the dynamos in the cloudless regions. Everywhere the power of the tides and such waterfalls as Niagara are to be utilized. Is not a millennium to be anticipated when the water power of a country shall be available at every door?

Steam, which in the last century has conferred so many benefits on the world, will give way before electricity. The dynamo will replace the steam engine. This prediction seems wild and visionary, yet when steam was first thought of as an available force its advocates were considered, just as the advocates of dynamical electricity to-day are considered, mere enthusiasts. But public opinion never stops the march of intellect. After it had proved the powers of steam to be enormous, genius never halted, but straightway went on anticipating still more wonderful discoveries in the realms of electricity.

The prophetic ken of science was happily exhibited by Dr. Lardner, in his treatise on the steam engine. "Philosophy," said he, half a century ago, "already directs her fingers at sources of inexhaustible power in the phenomena of electricity and magnetism, and many causes combine to justify the expectation that we are on the eve of mechanical discoveries still greater than any which have yet appeared, and that the steam engine itself, with the gigantic powers conferred upon it by the immortal Watt, will dwindle into insignificance in comparison with the hidden powers of nature still to be revealed, and that the day will come when that machine which is now extending the blessings of civilization to the most remote skirts of the globe will cease to have existence except in the page of history."

To-day we are beginning to appreciate the truth of this prophecy. To-day we see dynamical electricity in the forefront of the physical sciences. The principle of the transmission of power by electricity fast approaches its realization. We are, in truth, just entering upon a wonderful age.

A Huge Athlete.

Two gigantic athletes appeared in Turn hall, New York, one night last week. One was Carl Abs, champion wrestler of Germany, who arrived eleven days ago. The other was Professor William Hoeffler, well known here as a scientific wrestler. They were engaged in a Greco-Roman wrestling match, best two in three, for $250 a side. Abs stands six feet, weighs 230 pounds and is 33 years old. Hoeffler is an inch and a half shorter, weighs 190 pounds and is 28 years old. Abs had the reputation of being the strongest man in Germany, he had thrown the best wrestlers, lifted 230 pounds with one hand and carried 1500 pounds up stairs to harness.

Inside of two minutes from the first grip Abs lifted Hoeffler in the air as though he was a schoolboy twice in succession. The all-round athlete looked down on the stage in hopeless amazement. In another minute Abs dropped his man on the stage, rolled on him and pressed his shoulders and hips to the mattress.

The German started for the professor with a relish in the second bout, after a rest of five minutes. He was fresh and smiling, while Hoeffler looked worried and bore crimson marks of the initial innings on his neck, arms and chest. Abs pressed Hoeffler into the left wing of the stage, but soon released his hold, giving Hoeffler an opportunity to gain the center of the stage. Here the professor grappled the German's right wrist and tried to play the twist dodge. Abs returned the twist in a second, causing Hoeffler to cry out, "Foul!" Abs smiled, raised his man in the air again, dropped and rolled over him, and then both regained their feet. Then Hoeffler clasped his arms around Abs' stomach from behind and endeavored to raise him from the floor. He couldn't lift the German. The pair faced each other in a neck grapple and again disappeared in the flies. The professor cried "Foul" once more. Before the shouts of Hoeffler's partisans died away the German had him in the center of the stage again, where he raised and dropped him easily, rolling and pressing his back to the mattress. He had gained the fall and won the match. The second bout ended inside of five minutes.

Never did New York sporting men see a more perfect model of Hercules than the German. From his round head and great muscular neck to his feet he appeared without a blemish. He is the most powerful wrestler ever seen in America. Plenty of sportsmen stood ready to back him for any amount against any comer. A challenge from the stage for a match for $500 or $1000 was accepted by Matsada Sorakichi.

Rum and Life Insurance.

New York Mail and Express.

An interesting question has been raised by the suit of a Connecticut man which was tried in the superior court, this city, last week. Janitor Plumb of the "Clarke block," in Meriden was insured for $3000, two years ago, when he was 64 years old, and he was considered a "good risk," although his habits were not the best, because he came of a long-lived stock, his father having lived to be 100 years old and his grandfather 108. During the trial of Mr. Clarke, to whom his policy was assigned, to secure the insurance on his life a liquor seller swore that a score of years ago Mr. Plumb would drink twenty times a day, and "three-finger" drinks at that, but he "was not of the staggering kind," even when he was "full of rum." Evidence was given that he had become shiftless and that his hands were swollen with rheumatism, but the jury seem to have drawn their conclusion that he did not shoot himself while drunk, from the fact that a whisky bottle two-thirds full was found in his room directly after his death. Had the bottle been empty perhaps they would have decided that intemperate habits invalidated his policy of insurance.

The peculiarities of the case have excited quite as much discussion of the relation of drink to insurance as would have followed a different verdict, perhaps, and it is certain that the subject deserves more attention than it has hitherto received. No reputable life insurance company will insure the life of a person known to be grossly intemperate, but a proper discrimination is not made in favor of persons who totally abstain. A special rate should be offered for people who do not drink, even moderately, and at a season when pneumonia, the dread disease which destroys more than 3000 lives in our city every year, is remorselessly sweeping away the unfortunates whose bodies have been saturated with rum, the fact challenges consideration. Total abstainers should obtain insurance on their lives for at least ten per cent. less premium than other people pay.

THE STATE CONSTITUTION.

The proposition made in the legislature at its recent session to cast aside the state constitution did not die with its defeat at that time. We learn that the scheme is being steadily worked in different parts of the state with the idea of creating a public sentiment in its favor to be expressed in some form at the next general election. It is difficult to see a proper motive for this effort. There is not, so far as we can see, a single good reason why the fundamental law under which we have progressed happily from a mere settlement to a great commonwealth, should be put aside. It was drawn in a spirit of wisdom which, looking into the future, foresaw the needs of generations yet to come and amply provided for them. It left the door for progressive enactment wide open, and gave to future legislatures acting under its authority, in conjunction with the popular will, the fullest power to add to it or to take from it as changing conditions might call for changes in state government. It has been tried and found not wanting. Its provisions have secured us almost continuous good administration of state affairs and a healthy industrial advancement. Under it we now enjoy the substantial blessings of honest and economical government and of freedom from debt.

What can prompt the desire to throw away a system under whose rule our state affairs are prosperous, while other states suffer the woes of maladministration and flounder under the weight of debt? What besides a spirit of mischief can suggest the casting off of our most valuable legacy from the founders of the state? The truth of the whole matter is that such professional demagogues as Judge Boise want to fix in the basic law of the state a crop of vicious "isms" which cannot be adopted singly upon their own merits. It is devised for selfish and base purposes to "run in" with a mass of general and necessary regulations a score of mischievous provisions which could not singly run the gauntlet of popular judgment. This is the scheme of the prime movers and advocates of constitutional revision, but in their wake and quite unconscious of the deeper purposes, or even of the leadership of those who adroitly lead them, is another class who see certain opportunities for improvement in the constitution as it stands, and who, in the shallowness of their penetration, see no way of modification but annihilation. Because a shingle or two or three is loose on the roof they would tear down the whole great structure, mindless of the toils of its building, of the sacredness of its dedication, of its past honorable service and of its usefulness for the future. And besides this class who err from want of thought, there is another prompted only by personal ambition to "have a hand" in the making of a constitution.

Putting aside the general principle which we maintain, that a state constitution, while it may occasionally be repaired with advantage, should never be entirely overthrown, putting aside all other considerations but the one of present expediency, we see many reasons against creating a constitution at this time. We are just now at the threshold of new conditions growing out of the general introduction of railroads, and of rail connection with the great body of the nation. Our whole business system is upset by conditions so new that our business men have not yet come to understand them. New population is coming in with new ideas and new enterprises. Even the railroads which have wrought these changes are in an unfinished state. We are, as a people, in a state of upheaval, and the future influences and effects of the new conditions just now upon us, are uncertain matters of speculation and theory. At such time, in such a condition of affairs, it would be folly to establish a fixed fundamental code. And further, a period of hard times when business depression with accompanying discontent affects the country, is not a seasonable time for general law-making. At such times the public ear is open to demagogical doctrines which would be laughed at in a season of prosperity, at such times, it must be said, the popular conscience is often less scrupulous than it should be regarding even the rights of property.

A constitution should be like a mighty and spreading tree. If a limb be unsound or out of just proportion, lop it off, but do not to cure a defect fell the giant oak and plant an acorn in its place. Prune it, develop it, bring it to perfection. Our constitution provides amply and specifically for its own development. It provides for a united legislative and popular judgment upon every change as it is proposed, that each variation from the original plan shall be viewed unconnected with other measures and upon its own merits. In this limitation lies safety from precipitous, passionate and ill-considered change.

JUVENILE OFFENDERS.

How to arrest the downward tendency of youthful persons who manifest inclinations to immorality and lawlessness, and in so many cases have no proper and efficient parental control, or none at all, is one of the most important, and at the same time most difficult problems that press upon society for solution. Among us the so-called reform school has been much talked about, and it has been put in operation in many places, yet now there is a growing conviction on the part of those who have had most experience with it that as an institution of reform it is not the thing wanted. A fatal defect is inherent in the plan. To herd together a lot of boys who have offended against the law tends, as experience has shown, to carry the whole mass down to the level of the worst, rather than to bring it up to the level of the best. The ones of lowest nature and strongest will set the pattern for the rest, and the larger the number the more difficult does it become to deal successfully either with individuals or with the mass. Modification of the old idea and system of a reform school now engages the attention of those who are giving thought to the organization of methods for arresting the downward tendency of so considerable a part of our youth. In this spirit was conceived the bill to provide means for the reformation of juvenile offenders, which was enacted into a law by our legislature during its recent session, and which we print to-day.

This, it will be seen, is exceedingly simple in its methods, are very different from those hitherto proposed here in connection with the idea of a reform school. Proceedings in court against a minor, for misdemeanor or felony, may be suspended, according to the discretion of the court, when there is reasonable ground to believe that the offender may be reformed. As a further step the court may then commit such minor to the custody of the officers or managers of any strictly non-sectarian charitable corporation as may be conducted for the purpose of reclaiming youthful offenders. This commitment for the period of two months, may be extended by the court, if deemed advisable. Pressure to induce the reformation of the offender is brought upon him by a provision which enables his custodians to return him to the court for final judgment for his misdemeanor or felony, in case he should prove incorrigible. The court may direct the payment of $25, out of the county treasury, for the expenses of such minor during the period of two months, or may direct an action to be instituted to recover such amount from the estate of the minor, or from his parents. The law is fittingly brief, and is simple and direct throughout.

The next question is, in what manner is the corporate institution contemplated by the act to take care of these young offenders? Is it the desire to organize an entirely non-sectarian institution which shall take the custody of these persons, not for the purpose of keeping them together in a so-called reform school, but to place them where they will be watched over, where wholesome restraints will be applied, and where they will be protected against cause. A central home will indeed, be necessary, but the idea is not to bring the young delinquents together in such a place and keep them there. The purpose will be to separate them into groups as far as practicable, the smaller the groups the better, and at the same time to exercise supervisory control over them under the law. Legal restraints will be in the hands of the managers to support the moral forces they will constantly employ. To protect the children and keep them out of the ways of crime, is to strike at the very roots of crime. A writer who has given the subject much attention says "Experience in successful work, the world over, is against the 'institutionalizing' idea. The best kind of institution life is unnatural—only to be tolerated rather than something worse. The individualization of the pupil and the process of restitution to society should begin at once. If the children are to be saved you must, as far as possible, replace, by family care and discipline the institutional methods of dealing with juvenile delinquents. It is seldom one sees a boy or girl emerging from any institution fitter for the realities of life. Merely homeless children should never be sent to any institution, public or private, save when proper provision could not be otherwise made at once, and then only for detention and care until the agent could procure a suitable place outside."

These are the principles which, as experience has shown, must be observed in dealing with this most important problem. In accord with them the enactment of the present law was secured and an effort, which deserves the support of the intelligence, benevolence and philanthropy of this community is to be made, as we learn, to start them into practical operation.

THE RIEL REBELLION.

The present uprising in the Northwest territory in Canada is the result of agitation commenced about a year ago by Louis Riel, the ringleader of the Red river rebellion in 1869, and is in part the revival of the old feud. When the Hudson Bay company, early in 1869, was asked to surrender Rupert's Land and other territory in the northwest to the British crown a grant of £300,000 in money and 50,000 acres of land was made to the company. The grant included the right to a part of the land laid out for settlement south of the northern branch of the Saskatchewan river, which had been settled upon by French Canadians and Metis, or half-breeds, and the fear that their lands were to be taken from them and the report that they were to be left to the mercy of the monopolists, who could compel them to trade on their own terms, led to a rebellion. The leaders were John Bruce, Louis Riel and Ambrose Lepine. Riel, a shrewd young French Canadian, became the real leader, and so dominated Rupert's Land that he prevented the Lieutenant Governor from entering the territory. In November the insurgents occupied Fort Gary and organized a government, and in February, 1870, Riel was named president. The government did not last long, for on receiving assurances from Archbishop Tache, representing the Canadian government, that justice should be done and amnesty granted, he and his followers laid down their arms. The British government and the Canadian authorities differed as to the question of amnesty, and Riel, after trying two or three times to take a seat in the house of commons at Ottawa, to which he was elected, was banished from Manitoba.

Since then he has been regarded by his followers as a patriot, but by Canadians generally as an outlaw. Last fall he reentered the dominion and proceeded to the Saskatchewan country, to advise the half-breeds as to the course to be pursued to obtain recognition of their rights by the government. Frequent meetings have since been held, and a bill of rights prepared in which the people asked to be relieved from the Hudson Bay Company's restrictions, and in which they asked that certain principles be observed in the survey of lands. The bill of rights received little or no attention, and the request as to a survey of lands was denied. This is the pretext of the present rebellion. A gentleman from the vicinity of the trouble informs the St. Paul Globe that the people have much cause for complaint against the government and the Canadian Pacific railway. The government has not kept its pledges to them in perfecting their promised titles and the railroad robs them by exacting extortionate tolls.

The situation is undoubtedly a very serious one. The rebels are strong, well armed and desperate, and all the frontier posts of the northwest are at their mercy. If they are resolved to make a real fight for what they regard as their rights, they can probably withstand for some time all the force that the government can bring against them, or they could flee into the fastnesses of the mountains or the wilds of the Hudson bay district to treat for terms with the government. In the end, of course, the insurgents will be suppressed, though, by inciting a turbulent spirit among the Indians, as well as by the rebellion itself, they will cause much trouble.

The German tariff on grain, which has been announced, is sufficiently high to be an effectual protection to the native agriculturists and relatively injurious to the American export trade. Following, as it does, upon the establishment of a strong protective tariff for industry, which has done much to build up German manufactures, it remains to be seen whether the rapidly growing industrial population will be willing to pay the increased prices for the rye, wheat and barley they consume. If their food rises in price, they will reasonably expect to have higher wages. With higher wages Germany will be unable, as now, or at least less able, to supplant England in English markets, and even to undersell Americans in their own market, notwithstanding our American tariff.

The decision of the supreme court of Maryland, that colored men who have passed the requisite examination cannot be excluded from the bar by reason of their color, removes the last legal restriction from the colored race in that state. The Baltimore Sun takes a very practical view of the decision, saying "If a negro is fitted to be an attorney, there is no more reason why he should not be allowed to take a retainer from anybody who is willing to give it to him than there is why he should not earn his living as a doctor, a preacher, a teacher, a trader, a laborer or a house servant.

The death of a man in the Gibson house in Cincinnati shows that too much care cannot be taken in regard to the electric light wires. The man went to the roof to see about repairing the escape steampipe. He grasped the electric light wire, probably for support, and in a second he was dead. The coroner's jury came to the conclusion that the insulation of the wire was rendered imperfect by the heat and moisture of steam escaping at the point of the accident.

Recent advices from Virginia state that the power of Mahone over politics in the Old Dominion has been effectually broken. The little senator has lost the support of Governor Cameron and the latter's readjuster friends as well as that of many prominent republicans who have assisted him in his victories. It is expected the coming local canvass will be a bitter one, and Mahone and his friends will be utterly routed at the polls.

Speculation about the New York postoffice is set at rest by the reappointment of Pearson, a mugwump republican. The president is able through this appointment to make a show for civil service reform and at the same time to reward a man who contributed greatly to his election. By giving the mugwumps their Pearson he has fully satisfied them, and they will now make no protest against anything else he may do.

Brigadier General C. C. Augur is to be retired in July and candidates are anxiously figuring on their chances under the new administration. Colonels John Gibbon of the Seventh infantry, Cuvier Grover First cavalry, Samuel D. Sturgis Seventh cavalry and Orlando B. Willcox of the Twelfth infantry are prominently mentioned as possible selections.

If, according to the proverb, every peck of March dust is worth a king's ransom, our own sovereigns ought to have been a lot redeem themselves during the month just closed.

They say the public debt statement for March will show little reduction. Well, it was the first month of democratic administration.

To the victors belong the spoils. The mugwumps get the New York postoffice.

WHY RAILROADS DO NOT PAY.

Mr James McHenry, the well known English capitalist, who has gained a knowledge of American railroad management in the dear school of experience, has been vigorously arraigning the management of these corporations to their abuses of trust. His attack is principally devoted against sinking funds, car trusts, collateral trusts, "freezing out," and other devices of railway managers to destroy the value of the mortgages and confiscate the property entrusted to their control. The accounts are systematically "cooked" so that the operating expenses are charged to construction, or the reverse, as it may be necessary to stock-speculating officers, and in the reports and public statements the end reached is a "systematic suggestion of the false and suppression of the true," as President Adams of the Union Pacific stated it a few years ago. The energies of railway managers are not exerted in the interest of their employers, but devoted to the running of "ghost trains" to transport vast quantities of produce with remuneration to the roads, and dividing the earnings among themselves, and effecting schemes for "reorganizations" and "lotterments" and the hundred other devices for the practical confiscation of railway earnings.

He refers sarcastically to the "autocratic government" of the railways, "so popular in this democracy," under which the rights of the public and the owners of the roads have been outraged. As a remedy for these abuses he would have a strict and independent audit of railway accounts, including absolute publicity, which would make the managers feel their accountability to the owners. He estimates that a full freight train can be run from Chicago to New York at a cost of not exceeding $500, including depreciation, litigation, taxes and all expenses. The present gram rate is about $4 a ton, and an average train carrying 400 tons would earn $1600 for the trip. If this estimate is even approximately correct it is plain that he is right in saying that if the business of the railroads was honestly transacted, their securities would form one of the best investments for the savings of the people.

TO REFORM YOUTHFUL OFFENDERS.

The following is a copy of the law enacted by our legislature, at its recent session to provide for the suspension of final judgment against minors in criminal cases, for the commitment of such minors to the custody of certain charitable corporations, and for compensating such corporations for the care of such minors:

SECTION 1. That final judgment against any minor may be suspended on any conviction charge or prosecution for misdemeanor or felony where in the opinion of the court in which such proceeding is pending there is reasonable ground to believe that such minor may be reformed and that a commitment to prison would work manifest injury in the premises. Such suspension may be for as long a period as the circumstances of the case may warrant, and subject to the following further provisions. During the period of such suspension, or of any extension thereof, the court or judge may under such limitations as may seem advisable commit such minor to the custody of the officers or managers of any strictly non sectarian charitable corporation conducted for the purpose of reclaiming criminal minors. Such corporation, by its officers or managers, may accept the custody of such minor for a period of two months, (to be further extended by the court or judge should it be deemed advisable) and should said minor be found incorrigible and incapable of reformation, he may be returned before the court for final judgment for his misdemeanor or felony. Such charitable corporation shall accept custody of said minor as aforesaid upon the distinct agreement that it and its officers shall use all reasonable means to effect the reformation of such minor, and provide him with a home and instruction. No application for guardianship of such minor by any person, parent or friend shall be entertained by any court during the period of such suspension and custody, save upon recommendation of the court before which the criminal proceedings are pending, first obtained.

SEC. 2. Such court may further in its discretion in the order directing a suspension of final judgment and a commitment in each case direct the payment to the corporation named in said order out of the treasury of the county where such criminal proceeding is pending by the treasurer thereof, for the expenses of the maintenance of such minor named in said order during such period of two months not to exceed the aggregate sum of $25, which sum shall constitute a legal charge against and shall be paid by such county out of the treasury thereof by the treasurer of such county upon the presentation to him of a certified copy of the order of the court herein before mentioned or said court may direct an action to be instituted by said corporation to recover the amount thereof out of the estate of such minor named therein or from his parents, and such order shall be conclusive evidence of the right of such corporation to maintain the action. Such court may also revoke such order of suspension at any time; provided, that such revocation shall not affect the right of the corporation named therein to receive or recover the amount thereof, in any case where it has accepted and retained the custody of such minor for any period of time whatever by virtue of such order.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

DIVORCE SUITS BEGUN.—Yesterday there was filed in the county clerk's office the complaint of Clarinda Welch, who seeks a divorce from her husband, John R. Welch. They were married in Clackamas county, March 25, 1880, and have two children, both boys, one two years and the other six months old. Mrs. Welch says her husband has never provided for her as a man should and that he has ill treated and abused her. She goes on to particularize concerning his treatment and says that he has frequently refused to speak to her some times for a whole week. Also in September, 1884, while she was sick in bed "the defendant to harass and torture the plaintiff, told her that he intended to commit suicide, and did in plaintiff's presence drink a vial of paregoric, telling her at the same time that he had done it for the purpose of ending his life also that he has frequently made such threats for the sole purpose of harassing and annoying her." Now, while Mrs. Welch ought not to have to live with a man who renders her life burdensome, yet not many women would be troubled as she has been. Instead of being harassed and annoyed by the threats of a husband that he would commit suicide, most women would hope and trust that he meant it, and would leave no stone in his path which might prevent him. Mrs. Welch also asks that she be permitted to take her maiden name, Clarinda Sharick, and have the custody of the children. Her attorneys are Messrs. Harrington & Searle. A suit has also been begun by Barbara A. Baugher against H. C. Baugher.

JOHN TROTHER'S BACK.—Old residents of this city will remember Charley Starr, a notorious bad man, who took several degrees at the penitentiary. He once shot Celia Levy, a woman of the street, and was implicated in robbing a safe in Billy Brum's saloon on Morrison street. His brother Frank Starr also earned an unenviable reputation here. Some ten or twelve years since these brethren took their departure from this state to the great relief and satisfaction of its citizens, and nothing has been heard of them since until last Friday when they returned on the State of California. Their sojourn in Texas and other places does not seem to have improved them much as they were both arrested yesterday by Policeman Hart on charges of assault and battery preferred by John Cook. The latter is the enterprising young man who snatched some cheap jewelry out of a safe in an auction store a few days since. He alleges that the Starr brothers held him up for all his worldly wealth. They allege that they won Cook's money, valise and other ... at cards, and used no more force than was necessary to put them in possession of their winnings. The matter will be investigated and perhaps the Starrs may be disposed of where they will not trouble the community for a time.

BOARD OF IMMIGRATION MATTERS.—The members of the bureau of immigration, formerly of the Portland board of trade, held their last meeting yesterday for the purpose of closing up and turning over the matters in which they had interested themselves to the new state board, created by the last legislature. All old bills were audited and paid, leaving a small unexpended balance in the treasury, which was unanimously voted to the secretary, Mr C. B. Carlisle, in recognition of his faithful services since the organization of the board. In addition to this handsome financial compliment several members of the board took occasion individually to speak in terms of praise of the work performed by Mr. Carlisle and to assure him of their influence in securing him a similar position with the state board. This body holds its first meeting this morning at 10 o'clock, which will be devoted to organization. Two members of the old board—Messrs. H. W. Corbett and C. H. Dodd—go into the new board.

BEES BUSY LAST MONTH.—Thomas Brasel, who has fifty stands of bees at his residence, No. 135 North Eleventh street, yesterday brought to THE OREGONIAN office a jar of delicious honey, which was made during the past month. He says that he believes that no new honey has ever before been taken from hives in this latitude in the month of March. On the 8th of March his bees began working in earnest, and he placed an upper story on the hives with ten combs in each. Yesterday, March 31, he found that the combs were nearly filled, and he took out four combs from each hive. From four of these combs he extracted the half gallon of honey mentioned. There was very little rain during March, and the bees never missed a lick, working right along seven days in the week, just like newspaper men, gathering sweets from every flower. If any one has a lot of bees that can equal Mr. Brasel's, we shall be pleased to hear of them.

TRIED WITCHCRAFT.—A few days since a correspondent in Umatilla county wrote to inquire if there was anything in the "water witch" racket. When the query was answered it was not supposed that there was such a thing as a water witch in this state. But it has since been found that there is one right here within the city limits. He came to the surface the other day while some workmen were bricking up the spring in the city park. It was desired to locate a small supply cistern at the fountain head of Spring branch and some dispute arose as to the proper location for it. The witch cut a witch hazel wand and walked about till a place was found where the stick, as he alleged, was so strongly attracted downward that he could not hold it up. The workmen all tried the "fake," but the stick would not pull for them, so they are convinced that there was some witchcraft in the matter or else the witch lied. The latter is probably the true solution of the matter.

TRYING CHINESE LOTTERIES.—It seems that the passion for gambling cannot be eradicated from those who are afflicted with it. Some time since the chief of police closed up the faro and poker games here and has kept them closed ever since. Many who by this arrangement were prevented from enjoying their usual pastime have turned their attention to the Chinese lotteries, the tickets of which are for sale in nearly every store in Chinatown. During the afternoon dozens of white men, some of them respectable, can be seen buying these tickets in the Chinese quarter, and thus enjoying the pleasure of hazarding their money in a game of chance. They can play high if they please or can try their luck on a ten cent piece. If this business increases the police will probably shut up the Chinese lottery games, which are certainly gambling and are punishable under our laws.

NOT A POKER DEBT.—Mr. T. J. Mackeldowney, of Washington county, from whose barn a horse was stolen on Friday night last, called at the office yesterday to say that there were not the slightest grounds for the idea that the horse had been won from his son at cards by the short card gambler who sold the horse, here. Mr. Mackeldowney says his son does not know one card from another. The horse was stolen from the barn by a back door, led across the fields for a quarter of a mile, and the fence thrown down to get him out on the road. The young man who took the horse away from the stable here brought him back in order to look for his saddle, and was persuaded to leave him till yesterday. It is to be hoped that the thief may be caught and punished. The horse was taken back to Washington county by the elder Mackeldowney.

ADVANCED FRUITS AND VEGETABLES.—A bunch of currants more than half grown and quite large enough to stew for the table, was sent to this office yesterday by Mrs. H. F. Stevens, who picked them in her garden at No. 145 Seventh street. Oregon lettuce, radishes, rhubarb and asparagus have been in the market for some time, and now currants are coming in. The apple trees loaded with blossoms give promise of an abundance of green apples in the sour by and by, and then the small boy will writhe in the agonies of colic and doctors will be happy.

RETURNED.—Mr. C. S. Jackson, business manager of the East Oregonian, returned Monday from a long trip east. He was in Washington at and after the inauguration, and there is scarcely a doubt that President Cleveland and his cabinet are now advised from a truthful source, of the glories of Oregon and its needs from the national government. If Mr. Jackson can reduce to cold type the story of his travels as quaintly as he can tell them, he will furnish very interesting matter for his paper.

COLLECTED A PART.—Judge South yesterday overruled Wm. Reid's demurrer to Assessor Harold's petition for a writ of mandamus and later in the day Sheriff Jordan collected a part of the taxes due from the Portland ... of which Reid is president. Taxes ... was paid, but Reid only paid ... tain stockhold ... and there is yet taxes to be paid on about $30,000 more.

CAME AFTER THE PRISONERS.—Deputy Sheriff A. Edgar of Wasco county came down from The Dalles yesterday after ... Simpson and McNeil, the two men arrested on Sunday by Sheriff Jordan in East Portland charged with horse-stealing. Mr. Edgar says he has evidence sufficient to convict these men, and hopes to capture two others who were concerned in the stealing.

SUIT FOR EJECTMENT.—Yesterday J. Kamm began suit in Justice Green's court to get possession of the premises No. 110 First street, occupied by J. W. Kelly as a cigar store, the tenant being one month in arrears for rent. He also got out an attachment for the overdue rent, amounting to $40, and the store was closed.

NARROW ESCAPE.—Yesterday morning the wife of C. R. Hoffman called at his butcher shop on Morrison street, accompanied by their little son about 5 years old. The youngster wanted something to play with, and Mr Hoffman handed it an old carbine, which is used to shoot cattle and which was standing in the corner of his office. He threw open the breech of the arm to make sure there was no cartridge in it, but quite forgot that it was a magazine gun and that when he threw the catch back a cartridge was thrown into the barrel. He then held the breech of the carbine to his little boy to let him pull the trigger. "Pull," said the father, and the son pulled, but not hard enough. "Pull harder," said the proud father, not knowing that he was ordering his own execution. Just then the old saying occurred to him, "a gun is a dangerous thing loaded or not loaded," and he shifted the muzzle to one side of him. "Now pull hard," he said, and the youngster pulled harder, and bang went the carbine and the bullet passed through a partition, up through the ceiling and roof, and is in the Soudan by this time. When the smoke cleared away and it was found that no one was killed, there was great joy in the place. There is no use talking, a gun is a dangerous thing loaded or not loaded.

READY FOR FISHING.—Every man with a molecule of sporting blood in his veins is off to-day wading some stream and casting the gaudy fly or luscious salmon roe in an endeavor to lure to their death the "speckled beauties" which are or should be so plentiful in all the streams of this section. THE OREGONIAN office will furnish a very respectable contingent to the army of fishermen, drafted chiefly from the composing room. The chapel has been to great expense in ascertaining the most desirable stream for its members to visit and has caused a large map and diagram to be prepared and posted over the sink for their benefit. The stream delineated is not known to the reporters, but judging from the number of big fish seen swimming therein and the saloons which line its banks at very short distances, it is a daisy. Five "comps" had "subs" on last night, and had their fishing gear collected for an early start this morning. Five new rods, five new reels and lines, five new creels, dozens of flies, twenty-five large salmon eggs, thirteen flasks and bottles of tea and a bushel of grub formed a small part of the outfit. If these fellows leave any fish in the stream they visit it will be singular.

BOYS BATHING.—Probably no man living east of the Idaho line will believe it, but boys have bathed in the Willamette river every day for the past week. Yesterday afternoon a party of good looking immigrants who had just arrived from Wisconsin were seated in the waiting room at Ash street wharf, when an OREGONIAN reporter entered. "Do boys go swimmin' this time of year where you come from?" he asked of the man who seemed to be the paterfamilias. "I should think not," said the newcomer from the Badger state, "but if they do they've got to cut through two feet of ice." Leading the man to the window the reporter pointed to the beach above the O. & C. depot, where about thirty boys stark naked were disporting in the water. The Badger raised his hands, and catching his breath, exclaimed, "Well, I'll be darned." He could scarcely believe his eyes.

FALLEN FROM HIS HIGH ESTATE.—John Logdon, a half-breed from the Siletz Indian reservation, was brought to Portland yesterday by Deputy United States Marshal A. R. Pygall of Tillamook county, charged with selling liquor to the Indians. Logdon was high in the confidence of the agent, and was chief of police among the Indians on the reservation, so when it was found that considerable whisky was being disposed of to the Indians from some unknown source no thought of suspicion rested upon him. He was making considerable money in this illicit traffic, but finally it was traced to him, and now he is thinking over the errors of his ways while in the county jail in this city. He had an examination before Commissioner R. H. Lamson, and was held for trial.

THE CLOUDS ALL RIGHT.—THE OREGONIAN has carried the news of the war alarms in Europe to all parts of the northwest, and the prospect of war between Russia and England has been a subject of interest to all. At Lafayette a day or two since Judge Boise was seated between two honest grangers, such as he imagines himself to be. One of them was reading THE OREGONIAN, and turning to the judge he said "the thunder cloud of war looks very dark on the eastern political horizon." "Yes," said the judge, "the clouds look very black." "Well, Judge," said the second farmer, who had only half comprehended the matter under discussion, "we need rain."

MAKING IT ATTRACTIVE.—New Market theater is being thoroughly cleaned, renovated and repainted throughout, and Manager Howe paces up and down the stage and views the progress of the work with great pleasure. He says he has a landlord just suited to his taste, one who never does things by halves. The walls of the theater have been given a reddish tint, the ceiling is being handsomely frescoed, the boxes will be repainted and gilded, a neat rail will enclose the orchestra, the scenery will be put to rights, and when Charley Reed and his troupe arrive they will find one of the tidiest theaters on the coast ready for their reception.

WANTED TO STAY WITH HER FATHER.—The only case before Judge Stearns' department of the state circuit court yesterday was the petition of Mrs. Flowers, a colored woman, for a modification of the decree of divorce which gave her husband the possession of their child at the time of the separation. The child, who is a girl over 10 years of age, came into court and testified when placed upon the witness stand, that she did not want to live with her mother, but preferred to stay with her father. In consequence there was no modification of the decree.

ARRESTS.—The police made 185 arrests last month as follows: Drunk and disorderly 81, driving over a bridge faster than a walk 13, assault and battery 11, disorderly by fighting 9, trespass 7, disorderly conduct 7, larceny 6, carrying concealed weapons 5, vagrancy 4, discharging firearms within city limits 4, larceny from a store 4, using obscene and abusive language 3, insane 2, roaming the streets after midnight 2, lewd cohabitation 2, prisoners en route 4, held as a witness 2, desertion from the U. S. army 2. Miscellaneous 14.

DECISIONS TO BE ANNOUNCED.—In the state circuit courts to-day Judge Smith will announce decisions in the cases of Wilkins vs. Chine on the objections to the cost bill, and Ah Way vs. Gong Choy et al., on the motion for a new trial. Judge Stearns will announce decisions in the following: Portland Lumbering Manufacturing Company vs. N. O. Anderson and city of Portland, Carrie T. Wood vs. Thompson, DeHart & Co., review.

KILLED BY A FALL.—Last Saturday afternoon in the town of Union Katie Hoffein, a girl aged 16 years, the daughter of a farmer living three miles from town, was riding horseback double with her sister. Katie being in front ... complained of dizziness at a ... moment or two afterward dropped the bridle, fell to the ground upon her head and instantly expired. No examination was made, but it is believed her neck was broken by the fall.

THE MONTH'S WEATHER.—Here are the figures recorded by the United States signal office in this city for the weather during the past month. People east may think too much has been said in praise of Oregon weather, but they can't dispute the official record. Lowest thermometer, 38 degrees, highest, 70 degrees, mean thermometer for the month, 48 degrees, rain fall, sixty-two hundredths of an inch. The mercury was up to 70 degrees on four days.

ANNUAL STALLIONS SHOW.—The annual exhibit of stallions will be held at Hillsboro next Saturday, April 4th, at 1 o'clock sharp. The horses will form in procession at the corner of Second and Main streets, and will be marched three times around the block on Main to Third, down Third to Jefferson, and down Jefferson to Second.

ROUND TRIP IN ONE DAY.—On Saturday the Telephone will make a through trip to Astoria without a stop. She will start back at ... P. M., arriving at Portland by 9:30.

The cases of M. Armour & Co and Lieberman Meyerfeld & Co vs Marx & Jorgensen, which were set for trial before Judge Smith in the state circuit court yesterday, did not come to trial, but were settled and dismissed.

Philip Goldsmith and others, doing business under the firm name of Goldsmith & Loewenberg, began suit yesterday to recover on a promissory note given by Kribs & McMillen. The amount sued for is $5247 75 with interest.

The young people of Taylor street church will give a shaker social this evening in the lecture room of the church. An interesting programme has been prepared, and a good time generally is anticipated. Ice cream and cake will be served. Admission 25 cents.

J. S. Hirst, who lost two fingers in D. W. Burnside's mill and failed to get a verdict for damages in the state circuit court, has determined to carry his case to the supreme court. His attorney, O. F. Paxton, filed the notice of appeal in the county clerk's office yesterday.

It was no second mate of a Ballyhoo who went into Hudson's gun-store yesterday and snapped the tip off a $10 lancewood fishing-rod. Oh, no. It was just George Walker, a first-class fisherman who can't look at a rod without wanting to try it. He just tried this one a little too hard, and now the boys have a joke on Walker.

In the interests of the temperance work at the Bethel, corner of Third and D streets, a highly interesting drama entitled "The Last Loaf," with other entertaining exercises, will be given this evening by the young people of the Bethel Home lodge, assisted by volunteer talent. In addition to other features there will be a zither solo by Prof. E. De Neuf, and a vocal duet by the Misses George Sears and Ivy Barker.

A gentleman who passed the county jail about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon reports having seen the notorious Ab Lawrence leaving that institution in a very hurried manner. Ab had evidently been put at work in the kitchen, as he wore an apron, which he rolled up as he reached the sidewalk and then started up Main street, running like a deer. If he will only run out of the state no one will regret his escape.

Talk about the sixty separate and distinct stinks of Cologne city, or the odors of Araby the blessed, or banks of clover or thyme, all these put together are faint and feeble compared with the odorous breezes which sweep across the plains of Klamath county. Yesterday 100 skunk skins arrived at Kahn Bros. from that region. Now, one skunk will thoroughly supersaturate the atmosphere over four square miles, and 100 skunks will therefore cover 400 square miles. It is now understood why young Kahn came back from Klamath.

What the Chinese thought of General Grant.

San Francisco Ingleside.

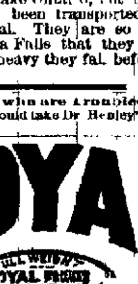

When General Grant returned from China I was quite struck with the amusing account he gave of the difficulty he had in making the court officials of the Middle Kingdom understand his position in this country. They kept constantly addressing him as the emperor of the United States. "But I am not the emperor," insisted General Grant. "I was president of the United States, but I am out of office now." "You are in exile, then?" said one of the mandarins in great alarm. "No, I am traveling. I am now on my way back to my country." "Ah, then, you are the emperor still." And the moon-faced Celestials shook their heads and smiled faintly. It was their Chinese idea of a joke.

Eels can go up any waterfall, no matter how high, if they are less than five inches long, when they get to it. Seth Green says: "There are plenty of eels in Lake Ontario, but none above, except they have been transported or got up through the canal. They are so large when they get to Niagara Falls that they cannot get over; they are so heavy they fall before they get to the top."

SENATOR STANFORD

He Makes a Statement About His Dead Son—Relations with Dr Newman

NEW YORK, March 28.—The Herald's Washington special says Senator Stanford of California has, by his presence here and attention to his public duties in the senate, quietly put down certain rumors which had been circulated through the press by ill-wishers, that the loss of his son had in a measure unsettled his mind. No one who sees him or speaks with him or with Mrs Stanford will doubt that both of them bear the very grievous blow with fortitude and self possession, and neither of them is so engrossed by the great grief as to justify the ill-natured and injurious reports which have been circulated about them. Mr Stanford said "The appearance of such reports in the Herald does, I confess, annoy me, and I would like to see the Herald print the truth about my wife and myself. It is not true that we have obtruded our great grief upon any one. The body of our poor dead boy was never exposed to any gaze whatever. The coffin was not opened—not once—from the time it was first closed after his death. A good deal has been said of Dr Newman's connection with all this. We made the acquaintance of Newman in New York through mutual friends. He had the good taste, when he visited us, not to allude to our grief and loss, and to talk to Mrs. Stanford of other matters—foreign places which we all had seen and general experiences of travel. This kind and tactful course did win my heart to him, and we saw much of him in New York at our own desire. He did not go to California with us, but was in the northwest filling a series of lecture engagements when we left New York. I had advised him to try to get engagements also to lecture in California, because I believed that the climate would be beneficial to his health. I was pleased when he succeeded in this, and when I met him in San Francisco we were grateful to him for his offer to preach the funeral discourse upon our poor dead boy; nor did Bishop Kip see any impropriety in opening an Episcopal church to him for that purpose. But it is false that I ever paid Newman $10,000 or any other sum for that. He has never received any money from me, and I remain his grateful debtor to-day for many kindly services, and for true and tactful sympathy. I have seen a number of large estates intended for public and beneficent use wasted by litigation, and, in effect, divided among contending lawyers. When I see these false reports industriously circulated about our 'monomania,' our devotion to "spiritualism," etc., I seem to see a train laying and a way preparing for unscrupulous men to dispute, after my death, my competency to do that for the people of California and the youth of that state which I want to do. I see the possibility of another great estate going, not where its owners wish it to go, to public and good uses, but to some lawyers. I am made uneasy lest the purpose which lies near my heart and my wife's may be defeated by greedy and unscrupulous ... You can see this is not pleasant to either of us. That is the chief reason why I now speak ... in contradiction of false reports

"But Mr and Mrs Stanford are cheerful and ... of their grief, and they find comfort and employment of mind in the working out of that purpose in which they are united to give a large part of their great fortune during their lives to the best uses of the people of their own state, California. No one who sees them and talks with them will for a moment credit the mean gossip which has been circulated about them, or believe they are giving themselves over to undue grief or to selfish absorption in their loss. They are both in excellent health, and will live it is to be hoped, long enough to see their beneficent plans carried into full effect.

Disgruntled Rosecrans

Washington Dispatch to Rochester Herald

Rosecrans is sore and grouty. There is probably no man in the United States who is so disgruntled over the passage of the Grant retirement bill as old "Rosy". He feels so much resentment in his bosom that his accustomed urbanity has entirely departed, and instead of the jolly, pleasant old fellow that he was wont to be, he has degenerated into a crabbed, querulous, old bore. The trouble seems to be with his liver and his pocket book. Your correspondent rode a mile on a street-car with him at midnight the other night, and casually remarked "Well, general, your friend is on the retired list at last?" To this old Rosy replied "Yes, and he has already had $15,000 interest from his fund this year. It's a d—d shame. I wish I had one-tenth of that amount. I tell you, young man, this idea that Grant was a great military hero is all moonshine. It won't stand the light of history. It will not be many years before the eyes of the country are opened, and then Grant will stand forth in his true light. The idea of giving a man nearly $20,000 a year out of the treasury simply because he did his duty is wrong. I think the first step that congress ought to have taken is to provide clerks for the members of the house. If the country is too poor to provide a clerk for each congressional district, it is time we shut up shop."

FOREIGN NEWS

THE WINNIPEG INSURRECTION

WINNIPEG March 31—A Battleford dispatch says the Indians are in possession of the Industrial school. They came yesterday morning ... farm house on the way. They have asked Indian Agent Rolle for a conference but the latter will meet only the chief and ... neutral ground. The Crees and Stonies of Eagle Hills keep aloof from the movement. Citizens are confident of holding out until reinforcements arrive. All business is suspended.

A later dispatch says Indians are still encamped around the agency. Dewdney is holding a parley with them by telegraph from Regina and a peaceful settlement is expected. The reported trouble with the File Hill Indians is incorrect. The Edmonton wire is cut and trouble is feared there. A half breed from Carlton's crossing who refused to join the rebellion and was made prisoner, but escaped, says Riel has a thousand well armed men including some Indians and means to fight. General Terry commanding the United States troops in the northwest, reports no Indians crossing the boundary

FRANCE'S FOLLY

LONDON, March 31—A Paris correspondent of the Times says it is impossible for De Freycinet to think of a further advance to Pekin. The arsenals are empty and state of the country unfavorable for such a resolution. He will only be permitted to send 6 000 men to Tonquin. He will not thereby compromise the free action of the army in Europe and paralyze the national life of Europe in order to annex the ... Tonquin. Ferry would have done something. The only object was to overturn the Ferry ministry. The situation remains the same except for removal of the ablest republican statesman in France

THE AFGHAN BOUNDARY

LONDON March 31—Baron de Staal, Russian ambassador will have a conference with Earl Granville to-day. Giers accepts Earl Granville's suggestion that the boundary commission limit its work within the specified zone, to include Zulfikar, Chaman and Penjdeh on the south. DeGiers states the Russian commissioners are ready to meet Sir Peter Lumsden in April

A PEACEFUL SOLUTION EXPECTED

LONDON, March 31—The belief has become general that the Russo-Afghan question will be amicably adjusted within a few days. At the stock exchange this feeling was strongly manifested by an advance in prices. Consols at noon had risen eleven-sixteenth of one per cent, and the rest of the list showed improvement

REINFORCEMENTS FOR TONQUIN

PARIS, March 31—Owing to lack of transports considerable delay must occur before the necessary reinforcements for Tonquin are forwarded. It is possible that the new minister of marine, when the new cabinet has been formed, may charter a number of steamers belonging to private parties

THE QUEEN'S VISIT

PORTSMOUTH, March 31—The queen, accompanied by Princess Beatrice, left here to-day on board the royal yacht Victoria and Albert en route for Aix les Bains. A large crowd gathered at the pier to witness their departure, and cheered loudly as the yacht steamed out of the harbor

NOTES FROM THE SOUDAN

DONGOLA, March 31—The rival of El Mahdi is named El Makki and the number of his adherents is increasing. He has occupied El Obeid. The followers of El Mahdi are alarmed.

General Wolseley expects to reach Cairo on April 18th.

PANAMA (via Galveston) March 31—H M S. Lily, on nearing wharf at Colon, was fired upon. She returned the fire.

SOME RUSSIAN WAR VIEWS

On the whole, says the New York Times' St. Petersburg correspondent, the prospect of victory, in case of war with England alone seems bright here at present. It is a well known fact that the English ways of implanting civilization amid the wild tribes of Asia are distasteful to the aborigines, while they everywhere assimilate quite easily with the Russian forces then, there is the undeniable fact of the enormous Russian prestige in central Asia. The warlike tribes there are strong in their belief that Russia is stronger and more powerful than England and that conviction has been originated by the vacillating policy of the English commanders in those parts, whose actions were dependent on the changing policy of the home government, compelling them to go even as far in their concessions as to give up Cabul and Candahar. Russia, on the other part, is well known to go always to the end of her military enterprises, and never to give up the once occupied posts. Since the occupation of Bokhara and the subjugation of the Turcomans the prestige of Russia in those parts has grown immensely. And then again, the distances have to be considered. It would take England three or four weeks to send reinforcements to her Indian frontier, and her advance posts there are still 512 miles distant from Herat, while the Russians are only 144 miles distant from that point, and when the railroad is completed a Russian army may be transported from Odessa to Herat in six days. Such are the opinions advanced by optimists, while the pessimists are shaking their heads ominously and keep on asking, where is the money to come from to transport and feed the army of 1,000,000 men strong which it is confidently proposed to move, if need be, toward Herat? And yet the people who are now so completely engaged in discussing these momentous topics, to solve a problem in the development of which hundreds of thousands of lives may be sacrificed, are the very same men and women who were among the gayest of the gay only a short fortnight since. Here is, for instance, the son of Prince Dondukof Korsakof a young man of 35, who only a few days ago figured in the garb of a Capuchin monk at a fancy dress party in a private circle of some forty friends disguised in a most ridiculous fashion, but now he has resumed his uniform of the Caucasian mountaineers, seems to have sobered down altogether, and is going to assume the command of a regiment in active service in the Caucasus

Certain intrepid boys are in the habit of scaling the fire ladders attached to the rear of the two-story Harrington block on Fourth street, which is unoccupied. The latter, which was the under one, was so small as to need the assistance of the former in getting over the fire wall.
